TURKEY'S SEA SERPENT.

An extraordinary fish story is going he rounds in the Turkish capital. A igh English official was coming down times as big as porpoises, going up the had square heads, and were certainly not sharks. The boatmen say they are "jan-nevirs," which is the Turkish for "wild beast," and they describe them as very feroclous, for they attack boats and live entirely on porpoises. They have not been seen for fifteen years, and usually pass up the Bosphorus and spend a few days in the Black Sea, and then dis days in the Black Sea, and then disappear, having eaten all the porpoises. The fishermen are delighted, as porpoises

VANDALISM IN BERLIN.

The indignation of the Berlin popula-tion has been again aroused by an abom-niable piece of vandalism. For the sec-
